WINSTON SALEM, N. C., July 12.—The death of Zachary Smith Reynolds, 20-year-old heir to a tobacco fortune, was labeled as murder today.

The post-party tragedy in the million dollar Reynolds mansion was originally recorded as suicide.

But a coroner's jury, after hearing as startling testimony as ever a stenographer took down at an inquest, decided that Smith Reynolds came to his death from a bullet fired by person or persons unknown.

The verdict automatically released Mrs. Libby Holman Reynolds, Broadway singer and widow of the dead boy, and Ab Walker, his closest friend, from custody as material witnesses.

However, Sheriff Transou Scott, who has taken over the investigation of the supposed crime, said he may question both Walker and Mrs. Reynolds further today.

Grand Jury Today.

The grand jury meets in the course of its regular duties today.

It may take action in connection with the case if it so desires.

The testimony of witnesses at the inquest held at the Reynolds home furnished the following highlights:

Early yesterday afternoon Young Pa Newc saw a man and a lady drive through town in a coupe with a stove sitting in the rumble seat. Seems to me as if it was a pretty hot proposition.

Those few truck drivers who enjoy short-cutting across street curbs should try learning to drive all over again. Young Pa Newc and two other pedestrians narrowly missed being struck by the wheels of a truck and trailer as it cut over the curb at North and North Main streets yesterday. And besides, truck wheels aren't the softest things on curbs.

HARRISBURG, July 12.—In the face of open floor activities which appeared to discount every possible theory of early adjournment, reports were widely circulated today that legislative leaders had assembled a relief vehicle that could ride to enactment by the end of next week.

Both branches, meeting last night, went through routine sessions that failed in themselves to indicate that the third week of the special session would bring legislators any closer to their goal.

The first bill for executive approval was passed finally—the measure which appropriates funds to finance the session. It originated in the house and completed its journey in the senate last night. There was nothing on the floor of either branch

(International News Service)
BERLIN, July 12.—With 25 dead and 250 injured, the wildest election campaign in Germany's history reached its climax at Hagen, Westphalia, today, when communists set fire to a woods in an effort to "smoke out" a meeting of Hitlerites.

Twenty thousand Nazis were gathered in a meadow listening to impassioned speeches by lieutenants of Adolf Hitler when smoke from the incendiary blaze drifted over the pasture.

The meeting broke up in an uproar. Coughing and sneezing, Nazi "check troops" went to work and extinguished the blaze after a three-hour battle. Many were overcome by the smoke.

WILL ROGERS SAYS:

(Special To The News)
ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., July 12.—A nap in Chicago cost me the presidency. Now I find while I was down in Texas trying to rope a calf, my namesake in Oklahoma brought home the bacon.

Well I am for him; he has shown more ingenuity already than any candidate I ever heard of. They are trying to "hog" him out of it now. Well that's politics for you.

They say that he was a Republican eight years ago. My goodness, the whole state of Oklahoma was Republican just four years ago, so he saw what was coming four years before they did.

I tell you this bird is smart. In fact he will be plum out of place in congress. So let's all get behind "Will Rogers for Congress."

ATHENS, Ohio, July 12.—An 18-year-old boy was shot and killed, one railroad bridge was dynamited, another was set afire and four men were arrested early today at Chauncey, near here, in a new series of strike flare-ups in the Hocking valley coal region.

Ray Freeman, 18, of Buchtel, was fatally wounded in a clash between a mob of several alleged strikers and National Guardsmen encamped at the No. 25 mine of the Manhattan Coal Company, according to reports. Officials said the alleged strikers attacked the militia camp under cover of early morning darkness and began firing rifles, shotguns and revolvers. The guardsmen returned the fire and finally dispersed the mob.

Freeman's body, with a bullet hole through the chest, was found in a nearby cemetery.

"Torch Singer?"

NEW YORK, July 12.—"Torch singer," which has been used to describe Mrs. Libby Holman Reynolds professionally, has no standing among lexicographers, but for several years the term has been applied on Broadway to any performer who usually sings compositions described as "hot."

Mrs. Reynolds earned the appellation when she made a hit with the song "Moanin' Low" in the First Little Show. One explanation is that the phrase is based on an old saying that when a jilted lover is pining for the loved one he is "carrying a torch" for her. Songs designated as torch songs are blues, generally bewailing lost loves.

There will be sufficient funds for the improvement of 1,000 miles of the rural highway system, Secretary Lewis stated. The department expects to spend about $14,000,000 on the old road system, part of this sum being needed to match federal-aid funds which will be used in improving more than 400 miles of high-type highway.

Schnader

PLAN TO SIFT
GRAFT CHARGES

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, July 12.—State officers entrusted with an investigation of the charges against W. D. B. Ainey, Public Service Commission chairman, today had the co-operation of the state senate in making the inquiry.

After voting to table for a second time the Governor's communication in the matter and the report of yesterday's public hearing, the senate reversed its attitude an hour later, recalled the communication and voted without dissent to appoint a committee of seven to work in conjunction with Attorney General William A. Schnader in sifting the charges.

Named to the committee were the following senators: Rial, Westmoreland, chairman; Ernest, Dauphin; Muckman, Bucks; Salus, Philadelphia; Coyne, Allegheny; Clippinger, Franklin, all Republicans; and Roberts, Northampton, Democrat.

The committee and Schnader will make a preliminary study of the allegations of A. A. Chapman, Philadelphia who accused Ainey of misconduct in office by accepting money from T. E. Mitten of the Mitten management in charge of Philadelphia's Transportation system.

If evidence of misconduct is brought to light, a full and open inquiry would then be ordered, according to the plans. If the committee and the attorney general decide that incriminating evidence does not exist, no public hearings will be held and the probe would be abandoned as far as the senate is concerned.

Fires Bullet Into

FIRE IN HOUSE
IS EXTINGUISHED

After setting fire to her home, Mrs. Effie Moorehouse, aged 60, wife of Will Moorehouse, of New Bedford, fired a bullet into her breast, killing herself almost instantly, at 8:30 this morning.

Coroner Orville Potter, who was summoned following the occurrence, was told by Mrs. Anna Shields, her sister-in-law, who has been staying with her during a recent illness, that Mrs. Moorehouse had been confined to her bed for several days, and had been despondent.

Her husband had secured a job in Youngstown recently and had been staying there, it was stated. Sometime during the night, Mrs. Shields heard Mrs. Moorehouse get up and go to the kitchen. When she went to her, she found her striking matches. She asked her what she was doing and Mrs. Moorehouse replied that she did not know, that she must have been dreaming.

Fire Extinguished

Shortly after 8 o'clock this morning, Mrs. Shields left for her own home nearby for a few minutes, and Mrs. Moorehouse is believed to have arisen from her bed and going to the stairway leading to the attic of the home, a one-story bungalow, set fire to a pile of newspapers and clothing. Returning to her bedroom, she secured a .38 calibre pistol and fired two shots, one of which entered her breast near the heart, and the

Fear Twenty Dead In Flood In W. Virginia

Twelve Bodies Already Recovered From Flooded Area

RELIEF IS BEING SENT TO DISTRICT

Eight Hundred Are Reported As Homeless In Flood

(International News Service)

CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 12.—Relief agencies were speedily organized today in the flood-washed valleys of Paint and Armstrong creeks in Kanawha and Fayette counties to render aid to hundreds of homeless and to search for other victims of the churning waters that have taken an estimated toll of 20 lives.

The efforts of state police, Red Cross workers and local relief organizations were coordinated in the gigantic task as communications—being restored slowly throughout the devastated area—brought more details of the havoc wrought by the swirling flood waters.

Estimated that the flood, which flushed Paint and Armstrong creeks sending raging torrents through the lowlands, had taken 20 lives were made from meagre surveys. Some believed that the toll would be much greater. Officials and rescue workers were hampered in their relief work by impossible transportation and wrecked communications.

Recover 12 Bodies.

Twelve bodies have already been recovered, nearly 200 flimsy miners' cottages have been destroyed, at least 800 persons have been made homeless and a damage toll of probably a million dollars has been taken, it was estimated by Kanawha county officials.

With hundreds without food since their ramshackle homes and all their belongings were swept away in the torrent, state police and Red Cross workers set up rescue camps and

DELAY PROBE OF FLORIDA PRISON CAMP

Two Of Guards Can't Be Found

Disappearance Forces Postponement Of "Torture Death" Probe

CONVICT CAMP HAS BEEN CLOSED

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., July 12.—Disappearance of two guards, stationed at the Sunbeam prison camp when Arthur Maileff, 19-year-old New Jersey youth, met his "torture death," today forced a postponement of the grand jury investigation of that tragedy.

The grand jury, led by Al. F. Gorman, foreman, was taking evidence on the beating of other prisoners at the Sunbeam camp. The two guards, Gordon Denmark and J. Z. Simms, were sought by subpoena-servers to give testimony along that line, but could not be found.

Camp Is Closed.

The state of Florida, pressed by public sentiment over the death of Maileff, closed the Sunbeam camp and transferred its 90 convicts to a state prison farm at Raiford, Fla., fifteen of the convicts were to be held at the farm indefinitely, as they were under subpoena to appear later at the trial of two guards, charged with the murder of Maileff.

The accused guards, Captain George W. Courson and Solomon M. Higginbotham, were suspended from duty by Nathan Mayo, state agriculture commissioner, who has charge of all state prisons. Both were indicted for first degree murder for having placed Maileff in a narrow "sweat box" with his feet in stocks and linking a chain around his neck. The chain choked the youth to death, when he fainted from exhaustion.

Two Are Held.

The grand jury of Duval county, in which the camp is located, held Courson, who was in command, and Higginbotham, his first assistant, for trial on first degree murder charges. Both were released under bond. The grand jury continued its inquiry into prison conditions. Rumors prevailed that other prison camp officials and guards would be indicted for cruelty to prisoners. The disappearance of Guards Denmark and Simms temporarily halted this phase of the inquiry.

State's Attorney Charles M. Durance, of Jacksonville, announced he would personally direct the prosecution of Courson and Higginbotham. He characterized the crime as one of the most revolting in his experience as a prosecuting official.

ROTARIANS HONOR MR. RENTZ ON HIS 50th ANNIVERSARY

the paper's policy of fairness, emphasizing its advertising rates. He cited recent surveys which ranked The News among the dailies having the most reasonable rates of any in the country.

Call On Mr. Rentz

It was a tribute through and through for Mr. Rentz, and as Chairman Eckel of the program committee introduced him as a "real Rotarian, who backs up what he says not alone with facts but with his time and money," another outburst of applause broke loose.

Mr. Rentz' response was brief but his words rang clear and true as he sincerely reciprocated for the demonstration. Little time was wasted by the speaker, for his purpose was to describe the political convention which he played an official part in. His remaining minutes were devoted to his description, telling how men and women from the 48 states and territories outside proceed to choose their leaders for the two most eminent pinnacles in all the governmental structures of the world.

Briefly, his personal reactions were these:

He decided that between Republican and Democratic conventions, judging from press reports of the latter, there is but very little difference, but that little difference is in the noise. He spoke of the Republican order.

He now cannot understand why anyone wants to attend such a convention as a delegate. Delegates pay their own way.

He found that outsiders know very little about how the nominees are chosen. How delegates get their right to attend is a deeper mystery to many, he has learned.

He said that each congressional district sends delegates, the 26th (Beaver, Butler and Lawrence) sending two delegates and two alternates. Dr. Greer of Butler was Mr. Rentz' co-delegate.

He described the convention city as the spot upon which the final burden of the gathering rests, but that the host city does its best, and does succeed, to win back rich returns from its investment.

Liquor Not Issue

He felt somewhat ashamed that both political conventions created a stir over the liquor question while outside men and women were far more concerned over economic stability.

He told the Rotarians that no matter what kind of a platform the convention had adopted, his vote would have gone for President Hoover because he's convinced "he's deserving of another term."

He never saw as much ballyhoo in all his life as that which roared out of the gallery.

Gallery Hushed Quietly

He said the 25,000 or more spectators quieted down their demonstrations when a speaker reminded them that only 1,154 authorized spokesmen would settle the questions that came up.

He said Pennsylvania's delegation of 75 ranked second to that party from New York, claiming 97 members.

He explained the mysterious "fractional voting" of the members. It happens that disputes often arise over the right of a delegate or alternate to sit, and that sometimes disputes are sustained with the result that the delegate or alternate is penalized a fraction of his vote.

He cited the coincidence where two Scotts, of no relation and from different states nominated the president and vice president. Joseph I. Scott, California, placed Hoover's name before the convention and Charles F. Scott, Iowa, offered Curtis' name.

And in closing, Mr. Rentz told the delegates of the perfect radio setup arranged for broadcasting the proceedings, of Chicago stadium's powerful organ, of the hip-hoody war parades and other minor memories.

Caldwell's Tribute

Mr. Rentz' talk marked the first under the regime of President Caldwell, the successor to L. B. Round. The president's tribute to Mr. Rentz follows:

"On July 30th, 1882, a boy of 14 who had escaped becoming a merchant prince because a lady customer had desired to try on a pair of stockings and he had displayed a manly curiosity, came to work at the office of the Daily News in the city of New Castle.

the scene as it existed then. The city was a thriving settlement with a population of less than 11,000. The present water system was established that year. But there were no street railways and West New Castle was not even a borough. Aaron L. Hagen had just been elected judge and Malcolm McConnell was District Attorney. The City Hall had been completed after the fire of 1876. It had cost $31,000 and the lot cost $15,000. The Shenango Valley Hospital had not been thought of.

"This boy had been born on March 12th, 1868 in a log house which stood on what is now the Ave. property near the Croton School House. His parents were Mr. and Mrs. John Rentz, pioneer residents. A writer of about that day has the following to say of Croton:

"The village of Croton formerly a suburb of New Castle, now forms part of the city. It lies Northeast from the Court-house and about a mile distant. It is situated on high ground about one-fourth of a mile from the Neshaunock creek and the same distance from the New Castle and Franklin Railway on what is familiarly known as 'the scrub-grass' road. The manufacturing and mining interests of the place give employment to a large number of men. It has no separate post-office. There are many desirable residence localities in its vicinity and as the city grows Croton will eventually become a delightful and well-built suburb."

"After spending the first six years of his life in the village, the juvenile population of the village, this boy moved with his parents, which was natural, to Oak street and later to Shenango township. He had started to Central school but was obliged to quit at 13 and take up the serious business of making a living. He has been thwarted in his early ambition to become a blacksmith but worked for a time at 'Little Pet' furnace which stood on the present site of the steel mill. He later worked for a time on a farm near Moravia.

"Finally on July 30th, 1882 he came to work on the News in the capacity of 'printer's devil' a role he had no trouble in filling. The News office then stood at the corner of North Mill and Sycamore streets. After 3 years he had learned the trade but as there was no opening for a printer on the paper at that time he took a pick and shovel and helped lay the first gas lines in New Castle on South Mill street.

"There was soon an opening on the News however and he returned there as a printer. It was not long until he had become foreman of the composing room. On June 15th, 1891 he was given the business management of the paper which then had a circulation of 700 to 800. He worked night and day at the business and with such success that when in 1912 the News was incorporated, he became President of the Company.

"The phenomenal growth of the News since then is a matter of common knowledge. To-day with a circulation of approximately 17,000 it is from every standpoint: editorial, news, features or typographical one of the outstanding newspapers of the country.

"In this success the personality and capability of Fred L. Rentz was dominant. He is in the fullest sense of the word a self-made man. His education has come through continued reading and experience. The Hints and Dints, his own column, is recognized throughout the country. His energy, good business judgment, generosity and fine sense of humor have ever been his marked characteristics. Through his ready willingness to serve in places of responsibility he has become one of our outstanding civic leaders.

"The Rotary club, congratulates and felicitates him upon the rounding out of a half century of active and worth while service not only to himself and the News but to the community as well. The Rotary club is proud to hail him as a member."

FORMER EDITOR BEATS OFF BANDITS

STUEBENVILLE, O., July 12.—Not even a gun against his ribs could frighten this newspaperman.

The former editor decided to investigate when his watchdog started barking and was seized by two men as he opened the door. A revolver was shown against him. Simeral struck the gun and the barrel was broken down, the bullets falling out. Disarmed, the men fled.

CAPITAL HEARS REPORT RELIEF MEASURE READY

that even suggested early success. Another score of bills in the name of relief were offered, further cluttering the legislative machinery. The total score of bills was brought up to 181. Nearly half that number again have been born in the senate.

Await New Program.

A new program of house appropriations committee authorship, was awaited with keen interest for an appearance today or tomorrow. On this was the supposed latest agreement based. It is understood to represent a consolidation of the relief ideas of several group leaders and individuals and all hands would be amenable to it.

The first salary-cutter to complete the legislative route in either house was passed finally in the senate and sent to the lower branch. This was the Salus measure calling for a 10 per cent reduction of state and county salaries over $1800.

In view of the insistence of state officers that the assembly can not alter salary figures because it did not fix them, it appeared extremely doubtful that the Salus bill would ever become law even if it were to be approved by the house.

Apparently with this in mind, the house adopted a resolution introduced by Rep. Spangler, York, calling upon the governor to supplement his call for the special session by making provision for the reduction of salaries of state officials and employees, reducing the minimum salaries of teachers and permitting the acceptance of any federal aid benefits.

A resolution by Rep. Rhodes, Monroe, provided for the appointment of a committee of members of the house and senate to work in conjunction with the department of justice and the department of public instruction on a revision of the school laws. A similar resolution was passed in the senate.

The house session last night concluded with the passage of a score of first and second reading bills which were advanced for further action today.

POLLOCK REUNION EVENT OF MONDAY

Oak Spring farm, the home of James Peebles, near Harlansburg, was the scene of a happy reunion Monday when fifty members of the Pollock family gathered from far and near for a day of good fellowship together.

On account of the uncertainty of the weather, tables were arranged in a commodious barn, where a delicious chicken menu and all the tasty dishes that complete a feast, was served.

Following the young people put on an exciting game of ball for those unable to participate, and later, an informal program in which Dr. James A. MacDonald of Youngstown, O., and B. A. Pollock made a short address fitting to the occasion.

Violin, piano and vocal solos were rendered by different ones and "America" sung by the entire group, brought this part of the activities to a close.

An appetizing supper was then served in the shade of the huge trees, and as twilight fell, all departed voting it a decided success.

In addition to those residing in the immediate vicinity who were present, included Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Pollock of Mercer, Mrs. Ella Pollock and daughter Marybelle of Erie, Dr. James Pollock and family of Fairview, Miss Theo Pollock of New Castle, Dr. and Mrs. James A. ### SUMMER DANGERS TO PUBLIC HEALTH ENUMERATED SUMMER has its distinct and peculiar perils to the public health. These may be listed for the thoughtful reader, under at least a dozen names, and the mere mention of them will doubtless serve to raise questions in the minds of those who may be exposed to any one of them in the coming months of the heated period. The Pennsylvania State Department of Health, through its varied activities in defense of the public health, makes mention of the following, that may cause inconvenience, illness or even death, to many of our people during the next few months.

Drinking water, from surface streams, old wells, or springs that have not been tested for purity; milk, handled by unclean hands, or from sources that are not inspected by public health authorities; flies, buzzing in a never ceasing round of visits to filth and disease, and then back to your food or your face; poison ivy, sending its pollution into the system of many at the slightest touch, and sometimes, if you do not even touch it.

Sunstroke, a menace to the one who ever exerts in very hot weather, especially if certain organic ailments are present in the body; drowning claiming its toll of boys who seek out the streams for cool bathing, but for some reason or other, is unable to keep from sinking beneath the surface of the waters; motor accident, with its terrible and ghastly sudden death on the highway, and its maiming and bruising of those in accidents not fatal; lightning stroke, the gleaming dart of sudden death, which may not be avoided; tetanus, which when once contracted is so nearly fatal as to be counted 90% deadly; rabies, when mad dogs roam the streets; and insect stings and bites—not deadly—but annoying.

These are some of the summer health perils. Think about them, and have a care.

"HAS ANYBODY HERE SEEN KELLY?"

One man's meat is another man's poison, and probably on that principle we find people going into court for the purpose of having their names legally changed. The other day Edwin Manuel Kelly, a Brooklyn teacher, filed an application for permission to take the name of Kellet. He did so on the ground that because of his actual cognomen people were always poking fun at him and he wanted to spare his children this annoyance when the time came for them to go out into the world. Another reason he gave for the proposed change was that he was not an Irishman, but an American. "The name of Kellet," he declared, did not "suggest any creed, race or religion."

All this might have been good reasoning for Mr. Kelly, but it did not strike a responsive chord in the bosom of Justice Russell, who heard the application. He refused it and he did so with a touch of asperity. "The reasons advanced," he decreed, "are frivolous. Others of like name have found no such antipathy and prejudice to the Irish, especially of the name of Kelly. On the contrary, it has proven a title of honor and worth in almost every walk of life. Yet this applicant insults and attempts to belittle his own family and race by reference to Kelly as a hat, as a pool game, in connection with a green necktie, 'Slide, Kelly, Slide' and the like. Under the circumstances such an application finds no favor with me, though it well may be that those Kellys who rejoice in the name might welcome the granting of this petition."

For our parts, we think the Kellys are going to get a good laugh out of the proceedings; because, no matter what you may say for or against them, most of the clan are blessed with a sense of humor.

STRONGER REFORESTATION EFFORT IS NEEDED

Charles Lathrop Pack, dean of American foresters, again calls upon the federal government and other agencies to strengthen the movement to rehabilitate the woodlands.

Mr. Pack, who is president of the American Tree Association, has witnessed a steady decrease in the timberlands since the '70s, when he worked in Michigan lumber camps. There he saw vast stands of white pine cut away without provision for continuing the species on land not fit for growing annual crops, but well adapted to pines and other conifers.

In those days—when little heed was given to conservation of forests and other natural resources—fires often devastated great areas and generally were left to burn themselves out. Timberland fires took many lives, and forest workers expected that hazard. Mr. Pack relates that he and others once were compelled to take refuge in a Michigan lake, where they remained for five hours, almost submerged. The men shared the refuge with wild animals that were driven from their customary haunts by the flames.

Now—as during Mr. Pack's youth—fire is the forests' worst enemy. Every year, blazes largely caused by man's agency—and therefore preventable—destroy far more trees than are planted.

Under its current program, the American Tree Association is supervising the setting out of at least ten million seedlings and saplings, as part of a Bicentennial memorial to George Washington, a true forester. Strictly trees at Mount Vernon—planted either by his hand or under his direction—testify to Washington's interest in silviculture. His diary—kept during most of his life—contains numerous references to the value of trees and the best methods of caring for them.

This year should begin a new era in forest-preservation. No genuine forester advocates a sentimental policy which would affect agriculture and industry unfavorably, but it is necessary that the reckless waste of timber—with accompanying hurt to wild life, soil, watersheds and headwaters of navigable rivers—be checked to a great extent.

No other land tolerates such forest-devastation as the United States, where timberland fires still are regarded too indifferently. In most countries public opinion denounces fire-strewers; in the United States they seldom receive legal punishment.

During the past 100 years, fire and the ax have combined to convert 80 million acres of land which once was covered with trees, into wilderness that yields little or no revenue. In the main that area could be put to work at comparatively little outlay, were owners granted exemption from annual assessments on growing trees and given reasonable protection against fire.

Judging from the public statements of the disappointed candidates the names of the Democratic nominees are unmentionable.

Chicago physicists who invented an X-ray beam that will pierce a bullet-proof vest made of 18-foot steel picked the right place and the proper time.

The Merchant of Fear
He Is Profiting
By Man's Foolishness

By MARSHALL MASLIN

On a street corner, where there was no light and the shadows were monstrous—on a night when there was no moon and wiser people had been in bed for hours—I met a dark and loathsome figure. In a cavernous face two eyes shone dully like rotten wood in the dark, and two rows of phosphorescent teeth gleamed when this fellow opened his mouth. He gave me his hand to shake and I found it cold and clammy.

Having nothing else to say to him, I said: "How's business?"

"It's fine—it's wonderful—it was never better," he chuckled. "People jam my place of business and clamor for my goods. They do not ask for bargains. They pay any price, these days, for my product. In fact, in strictest confidence, they pay too much. They are all fools in my estimation to trade with me, but who am I to turn business from my door when people insist on trading with me?"

"Do you do a cash business?" I asked.

"To be sure," said he. "I do business for cash. I'll take the money or I'll sell on time and give what terms. . . . But mostly I do an excellent business in barter. . . . I'll trade my product for anything you have. I'll take Peace of Mind as a down payment on my goods. I'll take Happiness. I'll take Intelligence. I'll take Common Sense. I'll take Courage, Ignorance, Content, Beauty, Love, Industry, Genius, Life itself. For anything that anybody has I'm willing to make a deal, and I'll refuse no reasonable offer if I'm in the mood. But mostly I charge a fine price that never brings me less than 5,000 per cent profit on my investment. I buy low and sell high."

I did not like this talk. I wanted to be on my way, hurrying to the place where the lights of my own home would gleam in friendliness upon me. But the creature fascinated me.

"And what are you selling?" I asked.

"I sell my shiny hand upon you and I chuckle. 'I deal in Fear, I'm a Merchant of Madness. I sell what men do not need and should not have. I trade the worst for the best of men's possessions. I make no promises. I give no guarantees. I merely offer Fear for sale and men trade eagerly with me. . . . There is too much Fear in this world, but men seem to need more. All men and women I meet these days carry Fear in their pockets and ask for more. Is it my fault that I sell them what they want and drive a hard bargain when I can? I am a Merchant of Fear and I sell what men and women seem to want. . . . Is it my fault, I ask you, that human beings are such fools and clamor for what they do not need and should not have?"

"I cannot answer you," I whispered, and hurried away, half afraid. . . . But it seemed to me that even that master merchant Fear was half afraid of his own business.

ABOUT SAFETY

It's natural for children to go scurrying in the street.
A nine-year-old is bound to chase a ball on flying feet.

Let old folks prate their wisdom, but all little girls and boys will still run heter-skelter when they're playing with their toys.

I'd hate to see a youngster, say of eight or nine or ten, All cluttered up and burdened with the fears of older men. It would rob him of his childhood, which is not the Lord's design. He'll get his share of wisdom when he comes to forty-nine.

So let older folks be careful—time has brought to them the task. And not too much from children should their parents seek or ask.

There are dangers in the city, but when brakes in frenzy squeal You will usually discover there's a grown-up at the wheel.

Tell the youngsters to be careful, but they'll all be children still. And a child will chase a baseball through the street and away will.

Every grownup ought to know it. Where the children romp about. He's the one to move with caution; he's the one who must look out!

Roosevelt As Liberal Leader Received With Enthusiasm

United Democracy Seen By Country As Parties Prepare For Contest With Traditional Differences In Political Issues

Nomination of Franklin D. Roosevelt by the Democrats for the high office of President is viewed by the country as offering a political contest along traditional lines. The New York governor is hailed as a liberal leader and one who will be likely to create a united Democracy. His popularity to the West and South is emphasized and he is credited with an appeal to citizens who believe his party is determined to fight out the problems of the moment.

"The nomination means a united and victorious Democracy," according to the ATLANTA JOURNAL (Dem.) which feels that "the will rally the party's ranks and the present has since the days of Cleveland and Wilson." The NEW ORLEANS TIMES-PICTAYUNE (Dem.) believes that "he enters the race at the head of a party united and harmonious as it seldom has been in recent years, splendidly equipped by able and efficient service under the Wilson administration, and currently as Governor of New York—with a record, in brief, which has won national praise and confidence." The FORT WORTH STAR-TELEGRAM (Ind. Dem.) holds that "Roosevelt and Garner, upon the Chicago platform, should have greater strength than the South and West than would have been possessed by a ticket with any other of the prominent convention candidates except Garner at its head, or indeed, greater than would have been possessed by any other combination." The SCRANTON TIMES (Dem.) sees in the New York Governor "a real candidate," while the DALLAS JOURNAL (Ind. Dem.) feels that "it should be a winning ticket."

"To face a sea of troubles triumphantly," says the OMAHA WORLD HERALD (Ind. Dem.) "calls for courage, initiative, vision. It calls for wisdom that is neither foggy with doubt nor mildewed with age. It is these qualities that Franklin D. Roosevelt will bring to the service of the American people in the day of this distress." The COLUMBIA (S. C.) STATE (Dem.) declares: "Those who heard Franklin Roosevelt at Chicago heard more than the speech of a candidate for the presidency. They heard a message of hope to a people who need and hope; they heard a message of courage to a people who need courage, and they heard a message with a spiritual touch." The HOUSTON CHRONICLE (Dem.) feels that he "stands four-square on a platform which voices with admirable clarity and simplicity the aspirations of the common man," and that "the people of America are invited to stand with him for the advancement of a liberal program which will place the government of the nation once more in their hands."

"Governor Roosevelt," says the PHILADELPHIA EVENING BULLETIN (Ind. Rep.) "has been the recipient of some handsome votes from the people of his own State, particularly in the up-State territory, which is a Republican, but it is hardly of a character to offset the handicap and inadequacy and inefficiency shown at Washington." Declaring that "the election of Roosevelt would be a condemnation of existing conditions and would voice a popular demand for immediate relief," the OKLAHOMA CITY OKLAHOMAN (Ind. Rep.) avers that "without a change in some of our national policies, there can be no hope for an early restoration." The MORGANTOWN DOMINION-NEWS (Ind. Dem.) declares that "to Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Garner the people must turn" and that "Mr. Roosevelt has only to stick to that high plane of courage and resourcefulness which he points to in his speech of acceptance to win for himself a high place in the heart of the nation." The TEXARKANA GAZETTE (Dem.) feels that "with Roosevelt and Garner, the forgotten man has a great chance of victory in November."

Gov. Roosevelt is now the candidate, with his fortune largely in his own hands," thinks the DAYTON DAILY NEWS (Ind. Dem.), with the warning that "too much reliance cannot safely be placed upon government by negotiation." The BUTTE MONTANA STANDARD (Dem.) offers the appraisal of the situation: "Mr. Roosevelt has had the opportunity to capture the hearts, not only of the Democratic voters but of the whole voting population. Never since the tragic days of the Civil War, which brought with it its own revered leader has the nation been in such dire need of inspired leadership. The time is ripe, and the hour is here, and the public mind is ready to accept a leadership that will rouse the nation and carry it out of the shoals and whirlpools of its present political-economic stagnation. If Roosevelt can measure up to those requirements, this Democratic convention, despite its hysteria and its confusion, will be treasured with blessed memory."

"He is not the biggest man the party could have chosen for the responsibility states the NEWARK EVENING NEWS (Ind.) "He was the most ambitious. That ambition made him too anxious to please everybody, and he lost stature as a result. Now that his ambition is realized he has grown into the measure of the man the country needs." The SPRINGFIELD (Mass.) REPUBLICAN (Ind.) voices the opinion: "This much is to be hoped for the country's sake, that now he has been nominated Gov. Roosevelt will reveal a power of leadership, a moral courage, a grasp of affairs and a mastery of public questions that have not hitherto been attributed to him by his critics. His opportunity is boundless. He will start his campaign against President Hoover with his prestige for political success unimpaired and with a family name that still exerts in some degree a magical spell over the American people. He will be aided by a rare combination of circumstances politically favorable, according to all precedents, to Democratic victory. His being the opportunity, his also is the responsibility for the best use of it in a period when the republic needs great men in the conduct of its affairs."

Some Republican newspapers present their objections to the candidate as an opponent of the present occupant of the White House. The SPOKANE SPOKESMAN-REVIEW (Rep.) feels that he is "playing the radical role this year." As Bryan played it in 1896, while the AKRON BEACON JOURNAL (Ind. Rep.) calls him a "colorless standard bearer." Republican satisfaction that he has been chosen is expressed by the LEXINGTON LEADER (Rep.) the YAKIMA DAILY REPUBLIC (Rep.) and the DES MOINES TRIBUNE (Ind. Rep.) and the IDAHO STATESMAN (Rep.).

ROCHESTER TIMES-UNION (Ind.) "is an amiable, well intentioned man. He likes to advocate vague schemes for 'human betterment' which rarely seem to get anywhere. The call of the hour is for a Chief Executive made of sterner stuff. The SALT LAKE DESERT NEWS (Ind.) advises that "failure for Mr. Roosevelt is, perhaps, most likely if the depression continues downward to the point where, in very rare before the threat of catastrophe, the people dare not change to an untired leader."

Franklin Roosevelt has launched the campaign on a high plane, a definite plane, a constructive plane," asserts the ROANOKE WORLD-NEWS (Dem.) with the conviction that the party "has chosen

IOWA FARMERS SAY "DON'T CRITICISE THOSE WHO BUY"

MITCHELLVILLE, Ia., July 12.—Purchases of needed items of merchandise by those financially able constitute the way to better times, a group of farmers who met at the Clarence Pearson home near here agreed.

Members of this group pledged themselves to do their part in purchases of needed items of merchandise to the limit of their ability and in a statement of their position signed by all, called on others to do the same.

The meeting grew out of a discussion among neighbors of this community. Those present expressed the belief it has become fashionable to appear poverty stricken and that many financially able have refused to buy while others who can and are willing to buy have refrained from doing so because of fear of criticism by business associates, relatives or neighbors.

The statement adopted by the farmers' group follows:

"It is evident that prices of farm products must be higher than they are now and that they should be stabilized.

"Legislation may help farmers to get better prices, but regardless of the help they may get from legislation, we firmly believe that immediate improvement in the price of farm products can be brought about by simple and natural circumstances. A greater demand for farm products, both for food and for industrial uses, would certainly result in improved prices. As employment increases, there will be a greater demand for farm products. And employment will increase only when people buy more.

As Much Money.

There is as much or more money in the country now as there was in the boom times of 1928 and 1929. There are hundreds of thousands, perhaps millions, of people in the United States who want automobiles, home furnishings, clothing, furniture, business equipment and the like and have the cash with which to buy. But they are not buying.

"We believe many people are not buying the things they want because they have the idea that they are doing the popular thing when they use worn out articles instead of buying new ones. Or, they fear they will be criticized by neighbors, relatives, employees or employer. Or they fear losing their jobs, or having their incomes reduced.

"We are convinced that once this condition which prevents people who have money to spend from buying the things they want is corrected, business will improve immediately and that we will benefit along with people in other industries and businesses. We have the greatest confidence in the future of the farming business and we have faith in the rank and file of the people of this country.

"Our Part."

"In view of our sincere belief in the soundness of the foregoing statements, and believing that our business and all businesses will experience greater improvement when those who have the money with which to buy start buying, we wish to do our part in bringing about a change for the better. Therefore,

"First—We will buy the things we want and can afford for our own personal home or farm use. Right now, each of us needs from $1,000 to $5,000 worth of farm equipment. We will buy this equipment and other things just as rapidly as we are able.

"Second—We will give a word of approval to the men or women in town or country who buy the things they want and can afford.

"Typical."

"Third—We will encourage, by everything we can do, those who want things and are able to buy them to go ahead and buy. We realize that money so spent will not only satisfy the wants and needs of the buyer, but will also go into useful channels and provide employment for people in every walk of life, improving business for everyone, including themselves.

"We believe that the ideas contained in these resolutions represent the sentiments of a large portion of the farmers of this country. Although we alone can do little, we believe it is typical of a widespread sentiment."

Secretary Of

Sixteeners Dies

Will Elect Successor At Annual Reunion Which Will Be Held Soon

MERCER, Pa., July 12.—The Sixteeners Association reports the death of Mrs. Linnie Johnson Kinch of Altoona, for 10 years secretary of their association which will hold its annual reunion here soon.

Her successor will be named at the 1932 meeting. The organization is made up of members who are graduates of the Soldiers Orphan School here. The school, operated by the state, was opened in 1883 and closed in 1889.

THE OIL THAT cuts repair bills

THE HEART OF THE CRUDE

NO "LIGHT ENDS"

"Light ends" evaporate. • Cause excessive oil consumption. • Have low viscosity. • Have low lubricating value under heat.

NO "HEAVY ENDS"

"Heavy ends" contain residual impurities. • Form tar-like deposit on exhaust valve stem. • Form carbon deposit in combustion chamber, on underside of piston head and behind the piston rings. • Cause formation of crankcase sludge.

DO YOU want to eliminate unnecessary repair bills? Save many dollars on operating costs? Know the full power your engine is capable of developing? Enjoy smoother, cooler performance, even on the hottest days of summer?

Then change to the new ATLANTIC MOTOR OIL—the heart of the crude! This great new oil gives better protection than any product heretofore available, because it has none of the harmful elements of "light" and "heavy ends."

"Light ends" are the oils distilled at low temperatures, in the refining of crude oil. "Heavy ends" are those in the middle of the distillation range. "Heavy ends" are the residues remaining. The "heart oils" have the highest lubricating value.

In customary refining practice, the "light ends" and "heavy ends" are blended. But tests prove that nearly all lubricating troubles come from these "light" and "heavy ends."

ATLANTIC therefore rejects them, using only the "heart oils." This means that the yield from a given amount of crude is just about one-half of that usually obtained. But it also means an oil that definitely cuts maintenance bills—an oil that will last longer, cost you less, and do a better lubricating job than any product you have been able to buy before!

Best of all, the new ATLANTIC MOTOR OIL sells at no extra cost. It is a fitting companion to ATLANTIC WHITE FLASH, the great super-fuel that sells at regular-gas price.

Fill your crankcase today with the new ATLANTIC MOTOR OIL—the heart of the crude—the oil that cuts maintenance bills.

Weekly Health Talk

"Enthusiasm is perhaps the outstanding American characteristic. For example, a sound theory is propounded, it catches the popular fancy, and then illogically is carried to extremes. But while this wholehearted spirit goes well in some of life's departments, it is likely to be embarrassing and even harmful in others. A misguided enthusiasm for the summer sun most decidedly belongs to the latter class," states Dr. Theodore B. Appel, state secretary of health.

"From a strictly scientific standpoint there can be no question that the direct rays of the sun upon large exposed surfaces of the body are of real benefit. This fact for a long time has been firmly established as well as spectacularly proved in tuberculosis sanatoria and kindred institutions. Moreover, it is equally well established that the healthy body can be definitely benefited by a judicious exposure to the sun."

Unfortunately, however, the average person apparently is unable to understand that the application of the sun's rays, to be of real benefit, must be a controlled and graduated one.

"Starting with the entirely logical premise that exposure to the sun is good for one, too many persons whose skins have been conditioned and protected for 50 years at a stretch will suddenly develop an over-enthusiastic affection for sunshine. This regard will be displayed by spending the first days of the seashore, mountain or camp in getting painfully burned. 10 thousands of such persons not only has this year's annual sojourn developed into a painful and unpleasant experience, but has literally made them ill as well. And some of them gravely so.

"It follows that a sensible and therapeutic application of the sun's rays is one thing, and an unregulated basking quite another one. Fifteen minutes the first day, and if the skin has not been burned by this exposure, increasingly longer periods on the days following will develop the desired tan, and in that process give one the best advantages of sun exposure.

"Therefore, on this summer's sojourn be enthusiastic over bathing, canoeing, fishing and all the other recreations that bring one in frank contact with Old Sol, but do not become one of his painful victims. You may rest assured that there will be plenty of sun casualties without your being in the number."

Protest Spreads Rapidly Against Proposed Cut In Pymatuning Funds

Sentiment is spreading rapidly over Western Pennsylvania against any cut in the appropriation for the work being done at the Pymatuning dam, as proposed in some sources at the special session of the state legislature. It is evident to all observers that any change in the funds for the dam would not only not aid the relief situation, but would make matters worse. Emphasizing the editorial declaration in The News last week, the Post-Gazette of Pittsburgh, today, has the following comment along the same lines:

Pymatuning
The proposal of a 50 per cent cut in the Pymatuning reservoir appropriation reveals an error that must be avoided in the endeavor to shape an effective relief program. True relief is not attainable through mere shifting of the point of distress. The Pymatuning appropriation makes work for some 900 men. Of the $1,500,000 appropriated, half has already been expended. To withdraw the other half would throw the men now employed on the project out of work.

Furthermore, it would set the project back to a point where later costs, on resuming the enterprise, would be magnified by the necessity of doing over again work that has already been done.

in clearing the land. Timber men say that if the work were to be halted, in two years there would be a regrowth of vegetation costing $10 to $15 an acre, or a total of at least $60,000, to recut. The contractors expect to have the dam completed and the reservoir ready for filling next spring. The 14,000 acres remaining to be cleared should be finished by the end of this year. Why "jam the works" now, in the name of relief? This would be relief that does not relieve.

And there is an important supplementary view to be taken. Completion of the project will benefit the entire Shenango Valley, increasing employment in existing manufacturing plants and attracting new enterprises through the presence of an abundant supply of pure water, lack of which has been a handicap to industrial advancement in this region. Immediate and ultimate prospects of rehabilitation combine against the proposal of a cut in the appropriation for work at Pymatuning. Legislators pondering the proposal should take to heart its clear and strong suggestion that creation of employment in one place is not to be brought about through creating unemployment in another.

Garden Cared For By Home Inmates

Although for a time the residents of Crawford Oakridge children's home thought the garden would be ruined for lack of rain, damp weather came just in time and the plot of vegetables is getting along in excellent shape. The home is located on North Liberty street near the Simpson church.

Quite a number of the boys at the home have had experience in planting and growing. They are given the necessary tools and have very commendably taken care of the garden. It is hoped that the ground will yield enough food to help materially in the feeding of the youthful inmates.

food supply camps at Gallagher, Handley and Standard.

Several truck loads of food, blankets and clothing were dispatched to the flood sections at once. Railroad communication was impossible in many areas, the waters from the swollen streams having carried away the rails or battered down the bridges.

At Paint Creek Junction all east-bound traffic was halted when parts of a Chesapeake and Ohio bridge was washed away. Concrete highways were sent adrift in the vicinity of Kimberly and Powellton on Armstrong Creek.

Tales Of Heroism.
The surging water picked up automobiles and bounced them against neighboring hillsides, leaving them badly wrecked. It was reported.

Tales of rare acts of heroism amid the confusion and disorder were told by exhausted rescue workers who returned to Charleston for additional supplies.

While the walls of miners' homes toppled down all around him and were swept past him by the roar of the flood, Ken Johnson, a high school boy, waded alone in the Kanawha river and rescued five members of a family named Kincaid.

The youth rushed into the river and saved the five from a raft which they had built from the collapsing roof of their own home. They had drifted nine miles down the river, in perilous danger constantly, before they were rescued.

Many refugees today still floated down the creeks on make-shift rafts, awaiting rescuers. It was said by Red Cross workers who declared that some of the flood survivors were out of reach.

Bodies of the drowned were found mostly on river banks, left there when the water subsided.

intoxicated and putting her arms around Walker, claiming her husband did not love her.

Reynolds, who saw the incident, told Walker that he "didn't blame him for anything that happened," according to the latter's statement.

2—The sweater and slippers which Walker said Libby was wearing the night of the party were found in the bedroom occupied by Walker. When Mrs. Reynolds arrived at the Baptist hospital here with the body of her fatally wounded husband, she was barefooted.

3—Mrs. Reynolds told Walker at the hospital she was going to become a mother. Two nurses said they saw Mrs. Reynolds and Walker struggling on the floor of a hospital room while Reynolds was being operated upon. The nurses said they had fallen off a bed. Walker said he had become nauseated and fell to the floor.

4—Walker admitted he had told Robert Critz, cousin of Reynolds, that there was something about the party which he "would take to his grave." Walker explained his statement as meaning that he knew Smith intended to commit suicide.

5—Mrs. Reynolds testified that young Reynolds held an inferiority and fear complex which made him think he was going crazy. She said he frequently put a gun to his head and threatened to kill himself. She clung to the statement that she could not recall the events on the party or the day before or after other than the brief flash of memory when Smith, laying beside her on the bed of the sleeping porch, killed himself.

6—The widow testified to her great love for the dead boy. She said he had become melancholy over his belief that he could not make her happy and suggested she have affairs with other men.

Glaring Discrepancies.

There were glaring discrepancies regarding the coming and going of Mrs. Reynolds and Walker on the party night.

Walker said that Mrs. Reynolds went upstairs at 11 p. m. on the night of July 5. He said she had come in the house after being in the company of Smith.

W. E. Fulcher, night watchman on the estate, contradicted this testimony by declaring that at about 12:30 a. m. he met Mrs. Reynolds on the estate. She petted his dog and then was met by Walker who was behind the house. The three walked up the path together and Smith was waiting on the porch, said the night watchman.

Mayor's Relief Committee To Curtail Help

Are Advised By County That Money In Poor Fund Is Almost Exhausted

MUST CUT DOWN
ON ORDERS GIVEN

Following a conference between the county commissioners and W. B. Howe, purchasing agent for the Mayor's Relief committee, relative to the condition of the county's poor fund, it was stated this morning that the Mayor's Relief committee will have to cut the amount of aid being given in half.

The county commissioners have been financing the disbursements of the Mayor's Relief committee for several months, through the money received under the Talbot bill. This money has been practically exhausted, Mr. Howe was informed.

The Mayor's Relief committee has been taking care of approximately 750 families per week during the past few months. Instead of giving one grocery order weekly, only one order will be given every two weeks.

The Mayor's Relief committee has found a number of cases of where people were coming to them for aid, who while doing the work required of them on city projects, have nevertheless been driving automobiles about town. It is felt that if a person can afford to drive an automobile, they are not entitled to relief even though they work on these civic projects, and they are being cut off the list of those receiving assistance.

While some people will probably suffer because of the drastic step made necessary by the shortage of funds, no other course is open to the Mayor's Relief committee, they state.

Most of those who have gardens will be able to get along, it is felt, as the various crops will be coming along now, enabling them to subsist by their own efforts for a time.

Ask Revocation Of License For Local Detective

Petition Presented To Court
Asks Action Against Goldblatt

Petition for a revocation of the detective license of William Goldblatt, trading as the Penn-State Detective Bureau, was presented to Lawrence county court today. Charges that Goldblatt had converted money collected from clients, to his own use were made in the petition.

The petitioners were Luss Brothers, of Springfield, N. Y., J. W. Cook and Sons, of Plateau, Pa., and the Quaker City Co-Operative Creamery Company. Judge R. L. Hildebrand issued a rule on Goldblatt to show cause why the petition should not be granted. Rule is returnable on July 25.

Goldblatt has been running a detective agency in this city for some years. His license was renewed on March 26, 1932. He registered at the prothonotary's office under the fictitious name act, as required by law.

It is alleged in the petition that on April 6, 1932, the detective agency by false representations, obtained from Luss Brothers of Springfield, N. Y., $105.35. It was claimed that the money was to be used in securing a bond in an attachment for money which Goldblatt was trying to collect for Luss Bros. When threatened with prosecution for converting the money to his own use, Goldblatt is alleged to have sent a check to Luss Bros., but it was protested, on account of insufficient funds.

A. C. Fisher of Springfield, N. Y., is alleged to have sent the agency $147.66, which Goldblatt said he needed to secure a bond in attachment proceedings on another claim. Later, threatened with prosecution, Goldblatt returned the money, it is charged.

The Quaker City Co-Operative Creamery Company sent $115 for a similar purpose, which it is claimed was retained by the agency.

On May 3, 1932, John E. Burson of Love City, O., is alleged to have sent the agency $31.59 for bond purposes. J. W. Cook and Sons of Plateau, Pa., claim to have sent $256.

The petition also asserts that an information has been made at Erie by one of the complainants in which Goldblatt is charged with converting money to his own use and embezzlement, and that warrants have been placed in the hands of New Castle officers for his arrest, but that he has not yet been found.

The petition concludes that Goldblatt has abused the authority granted by the court and used it as a means of perpetrating fraud in New Castle, Pennsylvania and New York. Goldblatt who is bonded for $2,000 by the Baltimore Casualty company, will be given an opportunity to tell his side of the story at the hearing on July 25.

Navy Officer, Ex-Sub Man, Holds Small Hope France's Sub Crew Will Be Rescued

A United States naval lieutenant, here for a visit with friends, today is hoping that every man aboard France's sunken submarine, the Promethee, survives his entombment beneath the seas, but sees little chance of the crew's escape alive.

Lieutenant Ralph Gurley, who came to visit the L. C. John family, East Winter avenue, has had submarine experience and knows just what dangers the crew of the under-sea boat are facing. Gurley came here from San Francisco after being attached to a government destroyer in the Pacific fleet. Within a day or so he leaves for Annapolis to commence duty in the navy's experimental station there.

The visiting lieutenant never served aboard any of Uncle Sam's subs that sank, but for four years he saw duty aboard the S-18, S-28, S-27 and the V-4. It was the S-4 and not the V-4 that sank in the New England region with a heavy loss of life a few years ago.

Speaking of the chance the French submarine men have Gurley said: "Three days beneath the sea is considered the limit, and unless the fresh air equipment operates exceptionally well the crew could not possibly be living."

Told that some press editorials decried the sub's sinking and that some even went to far as to term them "unnecessary," Gurley replied that no value can be placed on them. "They are of a very great value to a fleet at all times," he assured.

United States Never Informed Of Secret Lausanne Agreement

By ARNO DOSCH-FLEUROT
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

PARIS, July 12.—At no time was the United States informed officially that a secret "gentlemen's agreement" throwing the reparations problem into America's lap was being drafted, International News Service learned Monday afternoon.

The agreement was drawn up by Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald of Britain and Premier Edouard Herriot of France after the reparations conference was nearly wrecked by Chancellor Franz Von Papen's withdrawal of his plan for a political and military alliance between Germany and France.

The secret pact, making the Lausanne treaty null and void unless the United States cancelled or drastically reduced war debts, was finally approved by Italy and Belgium, although these two nations originally wanted the agreement embodied openly in the Lausanne document. It was a delicate situation. All agreed it was dangerous to keep the agreement secret, but at length decided it would be impossible to make it public.

As a consequence the secret agreement was written down in a letter addressed to Chancellor Von Papen and signed by the signatories of the Lausanne treaty.

Premiers MacDonald and Herriot went to work on the secret pact immediately after Von Papen returned to Lausanne from Berlin and reported that German public opinion would not consent to his projected military alliance.

The British prime minister saw the carefully nursed conference falling about his head. Unable to induce Herriot to come to any settlement with Germany, he put forward the idea of a secret agreement. Prior to this action he conferred with United States Ambassador Hugh Gibson and Norman Davis, expert on the American disarmament delegation, but there is no reason to believe he officially informed the United States of the plan.

OFFICERS' RESERVE APPOINTMENTS ANNOUNCED

Local Officers Are Designated

Bean Beetles Have Gardeners Guessing

Many Who Find Bean Beetles In Gardens Believe They Are Japanese Beetles

With the appearance of Mexican bean beetles in great numbers in local gardens this summer, many local folks who have never before been troubled with the pest, have been led to believe that they have found Japanese beetles.

There is quite a difference between the two species however. The Japanese beetle is a bright metallic green in color, with coppery bronze wings. It is about the size of the ordinary potato beetle, and is chiefly characterized by five white spots along the side of the abdomen, just below the edge of the wings and two white spots on the top of the abdomen in back.

The Mexican bean beetle, while about the same size, is a brown color and has black spots on the wings. The young bean beetles are of a yellowish color with spiny projections over the back and feed almost entirely on the bean plant. If there is a heavy infestation of the bean beetles, they will devastate the bean plants in a garden in short order.

B. & O. Veteran Placed On Honor Roll Of Company

Reaches Retirement Age After Many Years Of Faithful Service With Railroad

John F. Woods, 32 North Mill street, veteran machinist of the New Castle Junction Shops of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, has reached the age limit of seventy years, after nearly a third of a century of faithful service and been placed on the honor roll of the company, in recognition of the part that he has played in the affairs of the system.

Mr. Woods came here October 26, 1913 from Greenville and entered the employ of the Baltimore and Ohio as a machinist at the local shops and he has been in the continuous service of the company ever since in this city, until reaching the age limit on June 30.

He always had an active part in the affairs of the shop and was a member of the safety committee at different times. He was also chief of the first aid group for 18 years.

He recalled today the fact that at the first part of his service as chief of the first aid work at the shops here, there were numerous calls for assistance due to injuries and accidents. In the past eight or nine years, he stated there have been very few occasions when there was need of first aid services.

This he states is due to the many safety devices installed and to the safety rules inaugurated and observed.

The record of Mr. Woods in regard to accidents is rather unique, he having lost but ten days from injuries sustained while on duty in the twenty-nine years of continuous service here with the company. This occurred when he was working alone without a helper.

In the many years that he has been a resident of the community, Mr. Woods has been very active in fraternal circles. He is a past exalted ruler of the B. P. O. Elks and has also been chaplain of the lodge for seven years. He is also vice-president of New Castle Aerie No. 455, Fraternal Order of Eagles at the present time.

He is a very active member of Division No. 31 of the Baltimore and Ohio Veterans Association of this city, membership in which requires twenty years or more of continuous service with the company. He is chairman of the annual picnic of the division and its auxiliary to be held at Cascade Park on Thursday.

He is being congratulated by his many friends on the completion of his wonderful record of service with the Baltimore and Ohio and extended their best wishes for many years of a busy active life in the community.

World Bankers Urge Return To Gold Standard

BASEL, Switzerland, July 12.—The board of the World Bank voted unanimously for a resolution recommending that a return to the gold standard is the best solution of the world crisis.

Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, was one of those endorsing the resolution.

Sweden and Japan also signed it. The resolution was considered the first public announcement of the non-gold nations of their attitude, and particularly of Britain's intention of re-establishing the gold standard.

The resolution said restoration of the gold standard requires firstly, freedom for the movement of goods, services and capital; secondly, completion of the reparations solution reached at Lausanne by a satisfactory solution of war debts, and thirdly, equilibrium of national budgets.

$750.00 Cash Offered For Name of Radio Singer

Reward Will Be Paid Everyone Who Submits Most Suitable Name

Here is another unusual announcement from Hollywood. A new Radio Singer to be featured in an old song program wants a radio name, and $750.00 Cash will be paid for the best suggestion. Readers may send their own name, or any other name they think of as officials say any name may win the $750.00.

The company featuring this Radio Girl in old song programs believes the Public will take a greater interest in these musical programs if they have a part in the selecting of a radio name for the Singer, and in order to secure suggestions quickly, $750.00 in cash is offered to anyone who is quick in sending the name selected. Officials say anyone has a chance to win this prize by sending their own name or the name of a friend or relative, or a coined name made up by them. Readers of this announcement are urged to send their suggestion for a name at once because $250.00 Extra will be given the winner if the name is mailed and postmarked before July 17, 1932; otherwise the reward is only $500.00. The rules of the contest are very simple. All entries must be sent to the Radio Director's Office, Studio Z-102, 1023 N. Sycamore Ave., Hollywood, California. Officials of the Company say only one suggestion for a name must be submitted by each contestant; everyone but employees of the firm, or their relatives, are invited to submit a name, and in case of ties duplicate awards will be given. Readers may send their suggestion for a name on a postcard, or any kind of paper. The important thing is to send the name at once, because it means $750.00 in cash to everyone who is quick in sending the name selected.

Beer Fight Is Not Over Yet

Wets Will Continue Beer Campaign In Congress Until Present Session Ends

BINGHAM WILL RE-SUBMIT BILL

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 12.—The campaign for beer will be continued until the final gavel falls on the present session of congress.

This was the notice served today by adamant wets in both senate and house, where all efforts thus far to obtain "immediate modification" of the Volstead Act have been thwarted.

The movement is being carried on chiefly by Republican wets in an effort to "smoke out" southern dries. It also is another phase of the campaign of the "beer bloc" to seize every opportunity for action until they reach their goal.

Amendment Withdrawn

Senator Bingham (R) of Connecticut, who demanded a vote on beer after the Democratic National Convention declared for "immediate modification" of the Volstead Act, was bidding his time today, awaiting another opportunity for action.

Although Bingham withdrew his beer amendment to the Home Loan

Bank bill in the senate when apparently it was to be submerged in the inflation amendment of Senator Borah (R) of Idaho, he said he would reoffer it when Borah's amendment has been voted upon.

The Republican "wet bloc" of the house, having presented to Speaker Garner a petition signed by 77 wets asking for a vote on beer, planned to lay siege to the judiciary committee.

Dries Are Active
Dry senators and house members of both Republican and Democratic political affiliations were making every effort to stamp out the beer agitation during the session.

They took the position that the platforms of both parties can affect only candidates in the fall election.

The modification movement may also be accompanied by another effort to resubmit the 18th Amendment to the states.

The Republican platform has declared for resubmission with a proposed revision, while the Democratic platform declared for outright repeal.

FEDERAL TAX PAYMENTS DROP IN THIS STATE

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
Special Washington Correspondent
New Castle News

WASHINGTON, July 12.—Federal taxes collected from Pennsylvania during the fiscal year ended June 30, last, fell off substantially more than did taxes collected from the country as a whole, according to analysis of figures just made public by the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

Taxes collected by the federal government from the country as a unit on the other hand declined only about 35 per cent.

Of the taxes paid by the Keystone State into the Federal Treasury during the fiscal year ended June 30, last, $97,179,120 was income tax and $12,215,801 was in miscellaneous levies.

Actually the bugs are electrocuted by this method. When dusting the minute particles are deposited on all parts of the plants. Since the plane has no contact with the ground the particles are charged with static electricity. When the dust touches the plants, which are grounded, the electricity is discharged and the dust makes a close contact.

Hopes of a legal career were ended when a tonsil operation "ruined" her speaking voice, and Libby quit law school classes.

In New York, where she came to study French literature, someone discovered charm in her husky voice and she won stage success.

But the show failed, in a few weeks, and Libby tramped the streets for a year looking for work, then came fame in the "Little Show."

Then on Nov. 29, 1931, Libby, 25, was secretly wed at Monroe, Mich., to Smith Reynolds, 20-year-old tobacco heir, who had been divorced six days previously.

Now, prostrated by the suicide of her young husband, the singer has been too stricken to give a coherent account of the tragedy.

Hoover Vetoes Garner-Wagner Relief Measure

Message Of Disapproval Of Two Billion Dollar Bill
Given Out In 15
Minutes

BILL GOES BACK TO HOUSE AGAIN

In Veto Message Hoover Offers Plan For Needed Relief Legislation

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 12.—President Hoover Monday afternoon vetoed the $2,122,000,000 Garner-Wagner Relief Bill.

His message of disapproval was enroute to the Capitol within 15 minutes after the measure had been laid on his desk.

The Executive's chief objection was to that provision which would empower the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to make loans to private corporations and individuals.

Unsound Principle
"This proposal violates every sound principle of public finance and of government," the President declared. "Never before has so dangerous a suggestion been seriously made to our country. Never before has so much power for evil been placed at the unlimited discretion of seven individuals."

"In view of the short time left to the congress for consideration of this legislation and of the urgent need for sound relief measures, the necessity of which I have on several occasions urged upon the congress, I recommend that a compromise should be reached upon terms suggested by members of both houses of both parties, and that the congress should not adjourn until this is accomplished. Such a compromise proposal should embrace: First: Title 12 of H. R. 12445, the act now under consideration covering provisions for loans to states in amount of $300,000,000 for the care of distress in states where needed."

"Second: Title three of this act (which would spend $322,000,000 on public works) with the provision made applicable to all parts of the title except for roads and trails, that such works shall not be initiated except on certificate of the secretary of the treasury that the funds necessary are available and can be obtained without interference with the current financing operation of the government."

Text Of Veto
The text of the President's veto message follows:

"To the House of Representatives: I am returning herewith, without my approval, H. R. 12445, 'Emergency Relief and Construction Act of 1932.'"

"On the 31st of May I addressed the senate recommending further definite and large scale measures to aid in relief of distress and unemployment imposed upon us by the continued degeneration in the world economic situation. These proposals were made after discussion with leaders of both political parties in congress and in endeavor to secure united non-partisan action."

"They were in brief: '1—Authorization to the Reconstruction Corporation to loan up to $300,000,000 to state governments which are unable to finance themselves to care for distress, such loans to be made upon the basis of need. '2—Authorization to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to buy bonds or otherwise temporarily to finance public bodies and to provide part of needed loans in limited cases also to private industry, to increase employment through construction of sound self-liquidating or income-producing projects. '3—Authorization to the Corporation to undertake to finance exports of agricultural products and to make loans to institutions on the security of agricultural commodities in order to assure the carrying of normal stocks and the orderly marketing of these commodities."

Given To Committee
Washington, July 12.—Pending proposals to override President Hoover's veto of the $2,122,000,000 relief bill the House Monday sent the measure back to its ways and means committee for reconsideration."

Rep. Rainey of Illinois, Democratic leader, announced that this action was taken in an effort to obtain a jobless relief bill that would be acceptable to the President. After the reading of Mr. Hoover's veto message, in which he attacked the bill because it provides for private loans by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, the Republicans made an effort to force a vote on overriding the veto.

To Reshape Measure
Admitting that the veto would be upheld because of lack of a two-thirds majority, the house Democratic leaders decided to reshape the measure instead.

"Does this mean that the bill is killed?" asked Rep. Snell of New York, Republican leader.

"No," replied Rainey. "We propose to stop unnecessary debate and go back to the committee with the question of whether it will approve a bill that would be signed by the President."

Dinner Stories

CARELESS!
A drunk fell into the police station and confessed that he had pushed his wife out of a ten-story window.
"Did you kill her?" asked the sergeant.
"I don't think so. Thash why I wanna be locked up."

Lost 20 Lbs. of Fat In Just 4 Weeks

Mrs. Mae West of St. Louis, Mo., writes: "I'm only 28 yrs. old and weighed 170 lbs. until taking one box of your Kruschen Salts just 4 weeks ago. I now weigh 150 lbs. I also have more energy and furthermore I've never had a hungry moment."

Fat folks should take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast—it's the SAFE, harmless way to reduce as tens of thousands of men and women know. For your health's sake ask for and get Kruschen at Eckerd's Cut Rate, New Castle Drug Co. or any drug store—the cost for a bottle that lasts 4 weeks is but a trifle and if after the first bottle you are not joyfully satisfied with results—money back.

Ty Cobb Living In California, Is Very Happy

Former Star Baseball Player And Manager Now Resides In San Francisco

PLAYS GOLF AND LIKES TO HUNT

By FRANK G. MENKE
International News Service
Sports Editor
SAN FRANCISCO, July 12.—Ty Cobb is anchored here—"Because it is a great, great city."
Baldom's dazzling star in the drifted years added:
"The invigorating air here makes me feel 20 years younger. The friendliness and the hospitality of the people is wonderful. My family will be here within the next month or so and this will be our future home."

Stays In Condition
"What am I doing? Playing golf, fishing, hunting—vacationing—after giving 25 years of my life to baseball. I broke in when I was a boy; I remained into the middle years. My life was devoted to the game. I never let down in season or out of season. I was always breaking down on myself to keep in perfect condition so that I could play the game without an alibi.
"It meant sacrifice. From February or March of each year until October life for me was just a succession of baseball fields. I never could get away to see an Indianapolis speedway race; never a big track and field meet; never a Kentucky derby; never a big heavyweight championship bout; never a championship golf match, nor a battle for the highest honors in tennis. All these were denied me."

Tribute To Meek
"The last two years as a member of the Athletics were, physically, the most gruelling of all, yet, mentally, the happiest. Connie Mack was my chieftain and no finer man ever lived. He was a leader who by gentleness and fairness inspired loyalty to the absolute limit. I gave to the last ounce of baseball ability that was in me for him. He wanted me to go on after I had determined to retire from the game, but I refused to do this, simply because I felt that I no longer could give him value received.
"My one real regret concerning baseball is that I did not break into the big leagues under his leadership and been privileged to play out my years under his inspiring command. I will always believe that no matter what I accomplished elsewhere I could have bettered with the aid of the wisdom and the guidance of Mr. Mack."

Olympic Men In Final Training

Americans Swing Into Last Few Practices Before Final Try-Outs

(International News Service)
PALO ALTO, Cal., July 12.—Scores of America's finest athletes, training here for the American Olympic team swang into their last few practice grinds at the Stanford stadium today.

The final try-outs for Uncle Sam's squad will be held next Friday and Saturday.
R. L. (Dink) Templeton, Stanford coach, concentrated on preparing his sensational middle-distance runner, "Blazing Ben" Eastman, for his duel with little Bill Carr, the Pennsylvania flyer, who defeated Eastman in the I. C. 4A quarter-mile at Berkeley.

While the eastern college coaches backed Carr to repeat, Templeton took one look at Ben in action and said: "He'll never be beaten again."
Carr, in the meantime, is running smoothly, saying nothing, just waiting for the match which is arousing more interest here than any other on the try-out program.

With Eastman probably chosen automatically for the 800 meters, the field will be exceedingly well matched.
It will include Eddie Genuing of the University of Washington, 1931 national champion; Charles Hornbostel of the University of Indiana, who won the N. C. A. A. semi-finals; Glenn Dawson of Oklahoma, E. Gray of Abilene Christian and George Bulwinkle, New York A. C. star.

Genuing won the Long Beach semi-finals in 1:53.3, with ten yards to spare, and is the local favorite to take the race here.

However, Hornbostel flashed over the tape in 1:52.7, with Dawson right at his shoulder in 1:52.9, while Gray was but a step behind in 1:53.1. Bulwinkle won the semi-finals at Boston in 1:53.2.

The winner of the tourney probably will box Schmeling for the right to meet Sharkey in a title affair.

Golf League To Start Thursday

Seek Twelfth Team To Complete Roster Of Teams To Play Local Courses

Plans were made to start play in the New Castle Golf League on Thursday evening, when players from the Municipal and Castle Hills Courses, linked up with twelve teams representing various industries and business establishments of the city will tee off.

The schedule committee will complete its work today and the teams which will oppose each other in the opening matches this week will be known tomorrow.
Matches will consist of but nine holes to start off with as it is believed that it would be impossible to finish an eighteen-hole match in an evening with so many players competing.

Teams which were represented at the first meeting held last week, again had representatives at the meeting last evening at the Municipal Club House, and all signified their willingness to put a strong combination in the field.

One more team is necessary to complete the league quota and the officers of the league hope to secure another team today. Most of the team captains submitted their list of players to the league officials at the meeting last evening, and the S. C. committee will pass on the eligibility of some of the men in order to make the basis of competition more even.

League Directors Uphold Harridge

Refuse To Alter Fine And Suspension Placed On Catcher Bill Dickey

(International News Service)
CLEVELAND, July 12.—Overruling the objections of Colonel Jacob Ruppert, New York Yankees manager, the board of directors of the American League Monday sustained the action of President Will Harridge in fining and suspending Bill Dickey, Yankee catcher, for an assault on a Washington player.

The directors consulted on the case previous to the regular business meeting of the club president of the league here. The directors voting to sustain Harridge's punishment of Dickey were Alva Braden, Cleveland; Bob Quinn, Boston, and Harry Rabiner, representing J. Louis Comiskey, of Chicago.

Colonel Ruppert, also a member of the board, was not permitted to vote on the case inasmuch as it involved the Yankees.

Little Change In
New York Market

Offerings in Picotal Stocks
Turn List Slightly Lower
After Opening

EASIER TONE FOR PUBLIC UTILITIES

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, July 12.—Offerings in the pivotal stocks turned the list lower after the first hour of today's trading and small losses were prevalent in the market as a whole.

Further weakness in Telephone which after opening practically unchanged at 72 1/2 and then declined nearly a point in short order was a depressing influence on the market. In addition trading sentiment was dampened considerably by the decidedly unfavorable federal reserve member bank statement showing continued definition of loans and investments by banks.

Rail shares after swinging within a narrow range turned lower under the leadership of Union Pacific and Atchafalpa both of which dipped fractionally under their previous close.

Auburn ran into profit taking and eased off to 57 from its high of 59.

In the specialty group American Can, Eastman Kodak, and Allied Chemical held comparatively steady, but showed no disposition to break out on the upside.

American Tobacco and the other tobacco shares were steady to slightly higher maintaining a good tone.

The public utilities under the influence of American Telephone also showed an easier tone with Public Service and North American dipping slightly.

New York City Tractions were heavy with Brooklyn Manhattan Transit losing more than a point on heavy profit taking.

Council And School Board Combine To Collect Taxes Here

Order Tax Collector To Prepare Warrants For Constables

ELLWOOD CITY, July 12.—People in Ellwood City who have been dodging their taxes will have profit-very little if any at all. In fact they will be the losers, according to the plans of the local Board of Education and the Borough Council.

Last night the finance committee of council composed of Chairman Gail H. Morrison, Clyde Houk, and Mathew A. Riley, and a special committee of the school board went thoroughly over the tax delinquent problem here at a meeting held in the city building.

The school board had been working on this for some time and has been getting satisfactory results. Their investigation revealed that there were many on the tax collector's exonerated list who were capable of paying their taxes. A like investigation by the finance committee of council added to the list of those being able to pay their obligations.

As a result of the meeting last night the decision was reached that no leaf will be left untorn in the matter of collecting 1931 delinquent taxes. Tax Collector, T. A. E. McConehy has been ordered to prepare warrants of arrest to be enforced by constables, to aid in the tax collections. If necessary, liens will be filed against property.

Council and the school board have resolved to make this a thorough clean-up of all overdue accounts. There will be no unnecessary hardships enforced upon people who really are incapable of meeting their obligations.

A further announcement on this matter is expected to be given after the school board meeting tonight.

Rod And Gun Club
Has Fine Meeting

Former State Game Commissioner Is Principal Speaker At Monthly Affair

ELLWOOD CITY, July 12.—An excellent turnout featured the monthly meeting of the Ellwood City Rod and Gun Club in the Schaefer Hall last night.

The meeting was inaugurated with a short business meeting in which a serious discussion on stream pollution took place. Several petitions were presented and signed by the club members at the time. One will be sent to the Senate and House of Representatives in an effort to get through some needed legislation on hunting and fishing.

Following this those present settled down to hear a most interesting and instructive address on "Salmon Fishing" by Jared Reis of New Castle, who was a former state game commissioner. The speaker in a concise and clear manner explained the habits of this peculiar fish. Mr. Reis stated that he paid $27.50 for fishing license in Canada. The sum of $2.50 was government tax. The speaker illustrated his talk by showing several reels of motion pictures of salmon fishing in Canada.

Those present had an interesting time viewing the huge 32 pound salmon fish sent the club by Mr. Reis. Later this was fried by Dal Turner and disposed of by the club members in a short manner. Lunch was served to 200 at the meeting. The club extended Mr. Reis its hearty thanks for his fine address and his fish.

No definite plans were announced for the next meeting.

Guardsmen Take Eager Delight In Target Practice

National Guard Infantry At Summer Camp Takes Up Advanced Combat-Training

ENTHUSIASM IS KEENLY DISPLAYED

(International News Service)
CAMP O'NEIL, MT. GRENA, Pa., July 12.—Infantry regiments of the Pennsylvania National Guard now in the field for two weeks of intensive duty progressed from the basic principles of musketry today to the more advanced combat use of their weapons.

Huge, painted landscape targets were used in the training today. For the purpose of the problem it was assumed that enemy machine gunners lurked behind trees, buildings, fences, and other landscape features painted in natural colors on the big canvas targets.

Enthusiasm Manifested.
Through the rifle sights these terrain features looked mighty small, but the enemy was there and as the problem was conducted upon a competitive basis, each man and his outfit rated upon their marksmanship. Keen enthusiasm in the game was manifest.

Each squad or portion of one was directed to cover a definite feature of the painted terrain. A definite time limit was given in which to make that part of it hot for the mythical enemy.

Units of the 56th infantry brigade, under the command of Brigadier General Robert M. Brookfield, Philadelphia, maneuvered through this exercise today. The brigade consists of the 11th regiment from Philadelphia and nearby cities under Col. Charles C. Myers, and the 12th from the western part of Pennsylvania under Col. C. Blaine Smathers of Grove City.

Other units of this brigade practiced in the use of the pistol, machine gun and howitzer. Many of the guardsmen turned in excellent scores.

REPARATIONS AGREEMENT SEEMS DIPLOMATIC DUD

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 12.—The Lausanne reparations settlement, universally acclaimed a week ago as the outstanding diplomatic triumph of the post-war era and as the panacea for all the world's ills, seems about to develop into the greatest of diplomatic duds.

The revelation that Europe's decision to settle Germany's reparations for one cent on the dollar was based upon an extra-secret reparations for one cent on the dollar was based upon an extra-secret agreement that the United States would have to be similarly lenient with the war debts due from Europe has just about blown the Lausanne arrangement to bits.

For there exists no probability whatever that the American Congress will cancel the $11,000,000,000 that the Allies borrowed from the treasury, nor that these debts will be reduced or revised to any appreciable extent.

Such being the case, it is held unlikely here that France or Great Britain particularly France, will go through with the agreement to let Germany off with a cent on the dollar and at the same time continue to pay the United States.

Moreover, to make the diplomatic debacle more pronounced, a question of veracity has arisen between London and Washington as to whether the United States was officially aware of the secret agreement which was the basis for the whole "achievement."

Secretary of State Stimson asserted that no American representative was at Lausanne, and that no American was authorized to assent to any agreement affecting Europe's debts to the United States.

Neville Chamberlain, the British Chancellor, informed the House of Commons yesterday that American representatives were "approached" and "consulted" in the processes of working out the Lausanne understanding.

Premier Herriot of France, for his part, has informed parliamentary leaders in Paris that the whole agreement, so far as France is concerned, hinges upon America's willingness to reduce or cancel the debts.

There the situation rested today with the American and British governments seemingly at loggerheads over what actually happened at Lausanne, and considerable embarrassment all around.

Congress always has been adamant against any cancellation or reduction of the war debts. And having just saddled a new and onerous tax bill on the depression-ridden country, the temper of congress on the question of putting $11,000,000,000 more on the shoulders of the American tax-payer is today more savage than it has ever been.

Britain Plans To Erect Enormous Copper Refinery

(International News Service)
LONDON, July 12.—The United States senate's announcement of a tariff retention of 4 cents a pound on copper imported into America has hastened plans in Great Britain for the erection of a great copper refinery.

Plans are under way for the erection of a refinery at a cost of $15,000,000 or $20,000,000. According to members of the London Metal Market, England will have to impose a duty on foreign copper so as to prevent American copper being dumped here. It is the view taken in the Metal Market that American production will be stimulated by the higher price obtainable with the United States, and therefore a surplus will be available for exportation.

Apart from Canada and South Africa, the British empire has vast copper resources in northern Rhodesia. Hitherto copper from northern Rhodesia has been refined in New York, but the imposition of a tariff there has hastened British plans for the erection of a refinery in England for the treatment of Rhodesian copper.

Two New Oil Fields Uncovered In Texas

(International News Service)
TYLER, Tex., July 12.—When the great East Texas oil field yields up its last barrel, to set a new all time record for production from a single field, Texas still will have almost incalculable oil reserves, geologists believe.

Potential production of the East Texas field, called the world's largest, is placed in the billions. But even before the end of the field is sighted, two fields of estimated high potential have been uncovered.

The latest was in Montgomery county, near Conroe, a little town down Houston way. Only two producing wells have been brought in but these wells are more than a mile apart, indicating the probable extent of the field.

Just a few weeks prior to the Conroe field discovery, rich deposits were found in Starr and Duval counties. Development of the new fields will be slow because of present poor demand.

Among the fascinating new necklaces is one fashioned of ruby glass beads, worn with a wide bangle bracelet of the same medium.

NEW JOBLESS RELIEF BILL IS PREPARED

POOR DEPARTMENT FACING CRISIS IN DISTRIBUTING AID

began, the poor fund was totally exhausted, and the county had to begin borrowing from the banks. The first loan granted was for $20,000.00. Three other loans of $20,000 each were secured, making a total of $80,000 that had to be borrowed to carry on relief work.

The county had about reached the end of its string, so far as borrowing was concerned, when the Talbot bill distribution began. Part of this money was applied on the bank loans. The remaining $10,000 of bank loans was paid off today, with the addition of county funds to the amount received under the Talbot bill payment. Interest had accumulated on the last $10,000 so that it took $10,468.33 to pay it off.

Funds Are Low.
While the county is now clear at the bank, there is no money in the treasury to carry on, except the $2000 mentioned and what is coming in on taxes. The $2000 will be gone before the end of the present week.

Commissioners believe that it is fortunate that the exhaustion of funds came in the middle of the summer. They believe that at this season the orders which have been planned will yield considerable in the way of eatables. Many of the gardeners now have new potatoes, beans, peas, beets and other vegetables, that will help out with the family table.

The commissioners have been contributing a certain amount to the mayor's relief. Those in charge have issued orders for groceries to those who were employed. The same system has been in use at Ellwood City, Hillsville and other places. Now these amounts allotted to the organizations in charge must be reduced one-half.

Check Up On Orders.
As to the individual orders which are being issued, a rigid checkup of those receiving help is to be made. In many cases it is proposed to issue orders every two weeks, instead of every week, the amount of the order to be the same as received for one week. This will cut the individual orders in half. There are cases where it will be necessary to issue the orders weekly, but all such cases will be thoroughly investigated.

While investigations of every case have been made, it is believed that there are persons receiving orders who are able to take care of themselves. This is through no fault of the investigator but is often due to misrepresentation. County Poor Director M. B. Hogue, and the county commissioners, will be grateful for any information that may be furnished them relative to the ability of families to take care of themselves. This information will be held strictly confidential, and is desired in order that the department may not be imposed upon.

In an emergency of this kind it is the duty of all good citizens to lend their aid and assistance to the county commissioners and poor department.

It is also reported that there are many requests for medical attention that should be eliminated. Persons with a cold or some slight ailment, who would ordinarily doctor themselves at home, have thronged the county physician's office, now that they know that they can receive attention free. The county is prepared to take care of all cases where a real necessity exists, but they feel that there is a disposition to impose upon the department.

There has also been some complaint with reference to persons who have been sent to hospitals. The department tries to divide this work between the two hospitals. The circumstances of the case warrant it. It is claimed that some physicians have been endeavoring to dictate to which hospital a patient should be sent.

The department has also discontinued the distribution of shoes, except to very old persons, or those who may be afflicted with bedsores. No shoes are being given out to children at this time. Neither are they being given out to able bodied men and women. Shoe distribution has been a heavy expense during the past winter and it is felt that with warm weather here applicants can make their old shoes answer.

With a depleted treasury, the county commissioners are naturally very much concerned about where the money is to come from to carry on. Hope is held out by the present session of the legislature, but nothing definite has as yet resulted.

MacDonald Begins His Defense For Lausanne Parley

Before Packed House Of Commons British Premier Speaks Of Reparations

SHARP ATTACKS BEING STILLED

Great Britain Wants Just Enough To Meet Her Own Obligations, Says MacDonald

International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, July 12.—Before a packed House of Commons, Premier Ramsay MacDonald this afternoon began his defense of the Lausanne reparations agreement which underwent sharp attack yesterday when it became known that a secret agreement accompanied it, making cancellation of German reparations conditional upon revision of the war debts owed the United States.

The Prime Minister was greeted with cheers when he arose to speak. Last Of Reparations
"I claim for the Lausanne conference that it can lead to a settlement of those questions of reparations which are at the root of every economic trouble which has overtaken the world," he said.

"As a result of the Lausanne conference I hope that you have heard the last of reparations."
MacDonald called attention to the difficulties confronting the powers at the opening of the Lausanne conference.

"The initial difficulty," he said, "was that Germany paid reparations only to France, ourselves and others who thus paid war debts and also received war debt payments. America received payments."

"Each of these three groups quite properly refused to treat its contractual obligations so as to mix itself up with the position of any of the others."

U. S. Ready To Help
Nevertheless, said the Prime Minister, "I believe that no nation is more ready to lend a hand in straightening out the entanglements and troubles which surround us than America and her people."

Replying indirectly to the criticism voiced in parliament yesterday by Winston Churchill, former Chancellor of Exchequer, MacDonald declared there was no intention of going back to the Young plan if the agreement reached at Lausanne fails of ratification.

"If the Lausanne plan fails," he said, "instead of Germany falling back upon a suspended Young plan there will be another conference."
The Premier virtually repeated the famous Balfour declaration when he said that Great Britain would continue her policy of making no profit out of reparations and debt transfers, in other words that she would accept no more from her creditors than she needed to meet her own obligations.

Jake Fleagle's Ghost Haunts Minds Of Amateur Sleuth

(International News Service)
GARDEN CITY, Kan., July 12.—The ghost of Jake Fleagle, notorious "bad man," still haunts the imagination of amateur sleuths throughout the country.

Although it has been more than a year since Fleagle was shot down and killed by a posse of federal and municipal peace officers from widely scattered parts of the nation, who had been on his trail for three years, county officials here still receive "tips" from amateur detectives who have "located" him.

The latest communication regarding the whereabouts of Fleagle came to Chief of Police Lee Richards from Newark, N. J. The writer asked for fingerprints and a picture of Fleagle, declaring that he thought he had him cornered.

Fleagle was killed while boarding a train at Brandon, Mo., after a nationwide search had been conducted for him. He was leader of the gang of outlaws which held up and robbed the First National Bank at Lamar, Colo., in May, 1928, killing four persons. Three accomplices in the holdup were hanged at the Colorado state penitentiary.

The operations of the Fleagle gang were conducted from a ranch near here, which became notorious as the "horseless horse ranch."
